Brandt Gets Into Trouble in First Inning; Veteran Luque Makes Debut With Brooklyn

Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, N. Y., April 21—Brooklyn Dodgers got off to a four-run lead in the last game of their series. After Frederick's single and Herman's pop fly fell safe, Bressler strolled, filling the bases. Bissonette, with the count of three balls and one strike, lifted a long smash into the left field bleachers, clearing the bags.

Brandt and Spohrer were the Braves' battery, while the veteran Luque and Hank DeBerry were doing the home work.

Brooklyn—Frederick singled to left. Gilbert sacrificed, Brandt to Neun. Herman's Texas leaguer fell safe in center for two bases, Frederick going to third. Bressler walked, filling the bases. $49,501,000 BUDGET IS APPROVED

Tax Rate Boost Is Attributed to Larger Salaries and New Positions

Boston's tax rate will be increased at least $1.95 as a result of action by the City Council today in passing Mayor Curley's 1930 budget of $49,501,799.53.

Without a dissenting voice the council adopted the report of the committee on appropriations, that the budget sought in part:

As a result the tax rate will be boosted $1.95 with the possibility that further increases may occur before the rate is established this summer.

The City Council accepted the report of the committee on appropriations and passed it unanimously.

The committee reported that its analysis of the budget, disclosed that 75 per cent of the increase in personal service requirements are due to salary increases and new positions established during the year.

Through its chairman, Robert Gardiner Wilson, Jr., the committee praised the mayor for his efficient decisions and reported to the council that careful inquiry failed to show where any reductions of the mayor's allowances could be made.

The committee commended Dist. Atty. Foley for his reduction in jury expenses in Suffolk county and cited the added expense in the city of the traffic commission created last year that has already grown to a budget demand of $271,-535.70 with 61 employes.

The various expenditures of the city departments were commented on by the committee, increases and decreases being explained with each detail.

In closing the committee reported that it concurred with the representative of the Good Government Association, who sat in with them during discussions on the budget, for which Mr. Pratt said he thought it one of the best budgets that has been submitted to the City Council.

Cuban Turns Robin

Adolph Luque, famous Cuban pitcher, who was purchased by Brooklyn from Cincinnati this past winter, made his first start for the Robins against the Braves in the City of Churches this afternoon.

WARNER SEES NO REASON FOR CHANGE OF VENUE

Expresses His Confidence in Foley, Who Is Ready for Grand Jury Action

An indication that Atty.-Gen. Joseph E. Warner would place the Garrett case before a Grand Jury in Suffolk County was seen late today.

Beginning the draft of what he said would be a "short report" to the Legislature, to be filed "by May 1, but possibly before that date," the attorney-general said, with regard to grand jury action:

"I don't see any reason to distrust Suffolk County grand juries. Mr. Foley always has been co-operative and I have no reason to believe he isn't now."

It has been reported the attorney-general would place his findings in the Garrett inquiry before a grand jury in Norfolk county, Plymouth county and would ask trial on resulting indictments in Plymouth.

FOLEY IS READY

Dist. Atty. William J. Foley has said he was ready to place evidence before a grand jury in Suffolk as soon as he received a request from Atty.-Gen. Warner.

The amount of compensation to be awarded Damon E. Hall special prosecutor of the probe has not been decided, the attorney-general stated.

When he was asked what he meant by a "short report" of his findings, he refused to elaborate on the phrase.

City Councilor Clement A. Norton of Hyde Park, who said he would introduce resolves at today's meeting asking for the removal of Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson and a stop-order on Garrett's activities announced shortly before the council convened that he had changed his mind.

NOT FAIR TO WARNER

He said he did not think it would be fair to Atty.-Gen. Warner to involve the council in any Garrett action at this time. Considerable opposition to the proposed resolves, led by Councilor Robert Gardiner Wilson, Jr., of Dorchester, had developed on the grounds that the time was inopportune.

Commissioner Wilson, working in the yard of his Brighton home in his shirtsleeves this afternoon, denied the report that he was going away on a vacation. He said he was "resting at home."

Told that there was a report he already had resigned his office, he said:

"That is a steady diet."

He looked rested.

BISHOP FIGHTS FOR SON'S LIFE

New York, April 21—The Rt. Rev. James Matthew Mason, bishop coadjutor of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Tennessee, was to see his son in jail today.

Yesterday, the first time in 23 years in which he did not celebrate the Easter Communion, the chief festival in his church, the bishop was unable to greet young Jim Mason, who will be accused Wednesday in homicide court of killing David Paynter, 73, a printer.

LITTLETON RETAINED.

The clergyman hurried here from Tennessee to aid his son in his fight for life, but a prison rule barring Sunday visitors forced the bishop to spend the day in the home of George Patten, a wealthy friend.

The elder Mason arrived here early Saturday after a brief stop for a prayer at church, hastened to his jailed son. Through an attorney he called to send Mason a note pledging he would "stick to him to the last ditch."

The son, who spent the day writing a short story and reading, was

Defends Liquor Buyer in Farrar Case Brief

Washington, April 21 (INS)—Congress refused to make liquor buyers equally guilty with sellers when enacting the Eighteenth Amendment, attorneys for James F. Farrar of Boston, declared in a brief filed in the Supreme Court today.

The attorneys, James A. Cresswell and William H. Lewis, answered the government's appeal to sustain an indictment against Farrar charging him with buying liquor from Frank Rotondo, of Medford, Mass.

Senator Sheppard (D.) of Texas, author of the Eighteenth Amendment, who now is leading a fight for legislation making liquor buyers guilty, was quoted as opposing such a provision in the amendment.

Attorneys for Farrar also quoted Senators Borah (R.) of Idaho and Norris (R.) of Nebraska, outstanding drys, as opposing the idea. The latter was quoted as saying it would make prosecutions more difficult as buyers would not give evidence if they were subject to prosecution.

BISHOP PLANS FIGHT TO SAVE HIS SON FROM ELECTRIC CHAIR

MAXON HELD FOR SLAYING MAN, 73

Boy Blames His Plight on New York Gin and Shields Girl Who Fled

reported somewhat cheered by his father's message.

The father refused himself to all callers during the day, except for a short time with Martin S. Littleton, noted lawyer who will be the son's attorney.

Littleton said the youth's defense would be outlined at young Maxon's preliminary hearing, that the 20-year-old student and his paper-owner, admittedly drunk, became involved in a brawl at his lodging house after he entered the landlady's room by mistake.

He will assert that he fought with three or four other boarders and that in the general row the aged man was hit with a chair, causing his death.

"Boys will drink."

Bishop Maxon made that comment soon after he arrived.

NOTE CHEERS SON.

Myles Walsh of the staff of Martin Littleton wrote this note to Maxon at the jail:

"Dear Jim—I have just left your father. He will stick to the last ditch. Your mother and, of course, himself send their love. We will see you at the first opportunity."

Maxon was reading newspapers when handed the note. He made no comment on it.

Bishop Maxon was reticent regarding the killing of Paynter, but said:

"If any wrong has been done it must be righted, of course."

Young Maxon will be arraigned in the Homicide Court Wednesday.

SAYS HE WAS DRUNK.

"It was in a general argument involving everybody. Everybody else was drinking."

Sobered and weary, ames Maxon thus explained it as he stood in the headquarters lineup.

Before 250 detectives Assistant Chief Inspector Daniel Hennessey questioned him briefly about the row in which the Columbia student is charged with having struck to death with a chair as Paynter and others are said to have restrained him, from attacking Miss Rose Hickey, the landlady.

Maxon's answers, given clearly, solemnly, indicated that he may contend others beside himself were responsible for the disturbance.

"Were you drunk?" asked Mulrooney.

"Partly drunk," he replied, "but everybody else was drinking."

"Were you ever arrested before?"

"Yes, once in Chattanooga for being drunk."

HE SHIELDS GIRL.

To questioners who sought an admission from him before his lineup appearance that he killed Paynter, he repeatedly answered:

"I don't know."

But steadfastly the son of the bishop withheld the name of blonde Dorothy, who fled from his room in fright as gin drove a man mad, leaving her raccoon coat behind her. She is a girl he met two weeks ago at a drinking party with some fellow Columbia students, police have learned.

At first, when the influence of liquor was still on him, he was nonchalant, flippant. He even offered to buy breakfast for his police questioners if they would take him where he could cash a check.

Soon, in the general row, beginning to realize what calamity has overwhelming and his gaudy head family. Not once has he quavered or blubbered. And not once has he given police a clue to the name of his girl companion.

DENY GUILT IN PRISON RIOT

Cranston, R. I., April 21—After dramatically protesting his innocence, Ernest Condelmo, one of three men charged with the murder of Peter Chiarchio, a trusty, in Saturday's outbreak at State prison, broke down in local district court today.

With Harry McVay, wounded prison guard, reported dying, Condelmo, his brother John and Ralph Colarusso were arraigned on a charge of murder.

All pleaded not guilty and were held without bail for a hearing on Wednesday, April 30. Following the outbreak they were arrested in a Providence rooming house and were identified as gunmen who were in the visitors' cage at the prison when the shooting began.

Chiarchio, serving a life term, was shot to death when he gave the alarm that foiled the plot.

McVay, on duty in the visitors' cage, was shot in the chest and slugged on the head with a gun butt. He identified John Condelmo, who lives in North Bergen, N. J., as the man who shot him.

At the Rhode Island Hospital it was said McVay had developed pneumonia and was not expected to live.

His death will bring the toll to three. Thomas V. "Pretty" Mc-Neal, convict leader, having killed himself when he realized there was no chance of escaping.

Lindy and Anne Will Try to Better Their New Mark

New York, April 21 (AP)—We have another record, a cross-country flight faster than anybody else.

Taking off from Glendale, Cal., just at daybreak, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh yesterday brought their brilliant new scarlet and black monoplane to a three-point landing on Roosevelt Field 18 minutes before the day was done.

The Lindbergs left Glendale at 8:26:20 a. m. (Eastern standard time), landed at Wichita at 3:20:30 p. m., took off at 3:42:35 and landed at Roosevelt Field at 11:11:52. The total elapsed time was 14 hours, 45 minutes and 32 seconds.

"This is only one flight," he said, "and I hope to make others. I can say nothing at this time on the results of only one experiment. However, I believe transport flying in the future will go to higher levels, first the air mail and later passenger planes."

DISCLAIMS RECORD

The approximate distance flown was 2500 miles; the flying time 14 hours, 23 minutes, 27 seconds, the average speed 172 miles an hour.

Although the colonel disclaimed any new record, the time of flight was 3 hours, 15 minutes and 29 seconds faster than it ever had been flown before.

Capt. Frank Hawks, last June 29, flew from Glendale to Roosevelt Field in 17 hours, 38 minutes and 30 seconds, non-stop.

The fact that he and Mrs. Lindbergh made a stop, the colonel pointed out, technically made their flight not one to compare with that of Capt. Hawks. Capt. Hawks himself, however, had probably everyone else except the colonel, accepted the flight as a new record.

GIVES CREDIT TO WIFE.

The Colonel gave to Mrs. Lindbergh much of the credit for the actual technical details of the flight. She did the navigating, he said, kept the charts, and occasionally handled the controls. Their plane is equipped with dual controls.

Both the Colonel and his lady were smiling on arrival as they faced a battery of cameras and a crowd of 1500 to 2000 that had waited since early afternoon for their arrival.

The Colonel's face was grimy and appeared drawn, but Mrs. Lindbergh looked as fresh as though she had just stepped out of their home for a stroll down Park ave.

BURSTS INTO TEARS.

Mrs. Lindbergh remained in the plane, her head ducked down to avoid the glare of the curious crowd which attempted to push its way into the hangar, until all but a handful were cleared out. The colonel then assisted her out and into the seat of their car, where she waited while he gave a short interview.

As they drove out of the hangar after the interview, bound for their Park ave. apartment, one of the State troopers guarding the plane said that Mrs. Lindbergh, apparently more tired than she appeared, burst into tears and the colonel leaned over to comfort her

'BIG 5' PUT O. K. ON DRAFT OF NAVY PACT

U. S. to Be First to Sign the Treaty Tomorrow; Fears of Hitch Are Allayed

London, April 21 (AP)—The heads of the five delegations to the naval conference met today and formally approved the draft treaty which was then sent to the printers.

Those present were Secretary Stimson, Prime Minister MacDonald, Reijiro Wakatsuki and the French and Italian ambassadors, who officiated in the absence of their chiefs.

Foreign Minister Briand was en route to London today from Paris, while Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister and chief of delegation will not be present for the signing. Grandi was ill when he returned to Rome and was said still to be suffering from his indigestion.

It was stated that the full text of the treaty would run about 7,000 words.

The American delegation will be the first to sign the historic document at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow. The powers will sign according to their English alphabetic order: America, France, Great Britain, Italy and Japan. Following Col. Stimson will be Ambassador Dawes, Secretary Adams, Senator Robinson, Senator Reed, and Ambassador Gibson and Morrow.

Ambassador Morrow announced after the meeting that everything was set for the signing tomorrow. His announcement set at rest strong fears that some hitch would develop.

JUDGE PARKER TURNED DOWN

Washington, April 21 (AP)—Led by six Republicans, the Senate Judiciary Committee today handed an unfavorable report to the Senate on President Hoover's nomination of Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina to be an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

The vote against Parker in the committee was 10 to 6.

The rollcall in the judiciary committee on Parker follows:

For—Republicans: Gillett, Massachusetts; Waterman, Colorado; Hastings, Delaware, and Hebert, Rhode Island. Democrats—Overman, North Carolina, and Stephens, Mississippi.

Against — Republicans: Norris, Nebraska; Borah, Idaho; Deneen, Illinois; Robinson, Indiana; Blaine, Wisconsin, and Steiwer, Oregon.

Democrats — Ashurst, Arizona; Walsh, Montana; Caraway, Arkansas, and Dill, Washington.

Senator Overman, who is leading the contest in behalf of Judge Parker, announced after the session that he would call up the nomination.

Friends of the nominee who have been at the Capitol in his behalf immediately sought to communicate with Parker to learn his wishes. It was their determination, unless instructed otherwise, to carry on the fight on the floor of the Senate for Parker.

The nomination will go to the Senate where another vote is in order on the direct question of confirmation of the nominee.

Before adopting an unfavorable report, the committee refused by an overwhelming vote to invite Judge Parker here to answer the protests against him.

Chairman Norris of the judiciary committee and Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, led the Republicans in the revolt against President Hoover's nominee to the Supreme Court.

The American Federation of Labor and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People have protested vigorously against confirmation of Judge Parker.

In view of the committee's decisive vote against Parker, some senators believed efforts would be made either to have the nomination withdraw or to have the President withdraw his name.

EXPECT GLOVES TO TRAP GIRL'S SLAYER

Beads and Handkerchief Also Held as Important Clues by Washington Police

By Universal Service

Washington, April 21—A string of coral beads—a handkerchief with a laundry mark—a pair of pigskin gloves—these articles today appeared certain to play a vital part in solving the strange murder of Mary Baker.

The beads were those of the murdered girl, and were taken recently by a man to a store to be repaired.

The handkerchief was found near the spot where the girl's body was found.

FRIENDS ELIMINATED

The pigskin gloves, it is believed, were those of the slayer inadvertently left with the hat, coat and other effects of the girl, and later stuffed into a sewer.

Police working on the case have about eliminated from the crime the casual friends of Mary Baker. The spotlight was being focused in an attempt to reach some man who had known the girl for some time, perhaps some one desperately infatuated with her, a jealous admirer.

Mervin Sisson and Julian Gallagher, the two traveling salesmen who admitted "going on a party" with the girl and another girl who lived with her, were still being held for questioning, but their release was expected momentarily. Their alibis have been checked and substantiated. They have shed no new light on the mystery.

AUTO ABANDONED

As reconstructed by police, the killing of Mary Baker on Friday night, April 11, was probably the work of a jealous or jilted admirer. He met her near the Navy Department building where she was employed, quarreled with her as they sat in her automobile. They drove away, and later the quarrel was renewed as the car was parked along a road near Arlington Memorial Cemetery.

There the girl was beaten, shot three times, and her body left near the entrance of a culvert. The car was driven over half a mile to a spot close to a main highway, and there abandoned.

Policeman John R. Burk Mervin Sisson

Washington is still doing all in its power to aid Virginia authorities in solving mystery killing of Miss Mary Baker, navy department clerk, whose body was found in culvert near the Arlington cemetery. Among those questioned are Miss Olga Skinner and Miss Mildred Sperry, chums of the dead girl. Mervin Sisson, a salesman of Warsaw, Va., also was taken to Arlington county police headquarters for questioning. He was identified as a man seen near the murder spot. Patou Says American Women Are Superior

New York, April 21—The American woman is far superior to the classic Greek Diana, according to Jean Patou, French fashion dictator, on the eve of his departure for home and the Paris salons.

Jean Patou.

The debonair Jean had not intended to give his traditional farewell interview on American women, but a Park ave. débutante kicked his shins at a ball and the resolution was forgotten.

"I would laugh at the cheek-against-cheek, eyeball closed, lower part of the body trailing manner of dancing if it were not for its alarming public danger. The girl who kicked me—she had a comic expression of rapture. The effect, I would say, is at least bad on the eyes," he offered.

Mother Jones Reaches Century Mark May 1

Silver Springs, Md., April 21—Although nearly 100 years old, Mother Jones, Joan of Arc of American labor, has not lost her intense interest in the workingman.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burgess, lying among her pillows, Mother Jones allows her amazing voice to leap out in eloquent sarcasm, cutting to the quick what she terms the "foes" of labor.

On May 1 Mother Jones will pass the century mark. For so years of that life she has been champion, fighting on the platform and in the field. The American Federation of Labor is planning to celebrate the occasion in a number of leading cities. It is hoped that Mother Jones will deliver a radio message.

WIFE FOR A DAY WINS ESTATE IN COURT

Relatives of Second "Bride" Lose Their Fight in Taunton for Property Worth $8000

Braintree, April 21—At the age of 63, after 24 years of toil to eke out a bare existence, Mrs. Mary Lavandie Cronin is preparing to get some pleasure out of the remaining years of her life from the $8000 estate of her husband of one day.

Informed that Judge Mayhew R. Hitch of Taunton Probate Court awarded her the property of the late John F. Cronin, ex-assessor of Raynham, Mrs. Cronin related an extraordinary story today of a brief marital experience with Cronin.

On Jan. 17, 1896, they were married by Samuel Bates, justice of the peace at Braintree. The day following the wedding Cronin informed his bride that he did not intend to go to work for a living.

OTHER "GIFTS" DIES.

Thereupon, Mrs. Cronin said, she told Cronin she would not live with him and went back to work.

In due time their daughter, Helen G., now Mrs. Souther of Weymouth was born.

During the intervening years Mrs. Cronin worked at various jobs to support herself and her daughter. In the meantime she learned that her husband had gone to Braintree to open an antique shop and was living with the husband of Mrs. Fred Pickaley, who subsequently died and left her $8000 estate to Cronin.

Following Mrs. Pickaley's death, Cronin worked as a salesman and became an assessor in Raynham. Last January he died, leaving no will.

WIDOW WINS IN COURT

A relative of Pickaley, Mrs. Clara Holmes, applied to Probate Court to be appointed administratrix of the estate on behalf of Flora E. Perry, Francis M. Bowman and Frank M. Bowman, all of Taunton and Louise L. Bowman of Fall River, nieces and a nephew.

Mrs. Cronin and her daughter became forward with claims to the estate as widow and daughter of Cronin.

After hearing representatives of the contending claimants, Judge Mayhew R. Hitch decided that Mrs. Cronin was entitled to the estate.

Mrs. Cronin has been notified by her attorney that she will obtain the estate in a few days. She plans to spend the summer at the Pocasset house, part of the estate, and use the funds to provide comforts for herself and her daughter.

STIMSON RADIO FROM LONDON

New York, April 21 (AP)—Speaking across the Atlantic to the annual luncheon of the Associated Press, Secretary Stimson described the London naval conference today as a long step forward in world diplomacy.

The treaty about to be signed, said the head of the American delegation to London, represented the practical application of the peaceful declarations of the Kellogg anti-war pact, limiting at last the navies of the United States, Great Britain, and Japan, and holding a promise of future agreement in the limitation establishments of France and Italy.

Mr. Stimson's address, listened to by the thousands of Associated Press at their luncheon here, was broadcast throughout the country by the National Broadcasting Co.

"The work of the London conference," he said, "has naturally comprised two quite separate naval problems—the problem of the relation between the navies of the United States, Great Britain and Japan, on the one hand, and the problem of the relation between the navies of Great Britain, France and Italy on the other.

"The first has been solved. In the second, valuable discussions have been had and the underlying questions upon which a final solution must rest have been explored and clarified.

"It has been quite evident that the result of the conference has been to clarify issues and to make their solution in the future more possible.

"I should like to make clear to you all today that the success of the London Naval Conference is necessarily related to the success of the Kellogg pact.

"The good resolutions of that pact cannot stand alone. They must be backed by national effort—prompt, constant, unremitting effort—to make them good and effective. This offers a better earnest of its success than the line of naval disarmament."

A greeting from President Hoover was read at the luncheon by Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press.

MAYOR CURLEY INDORSES DRIVE TO LOWER STATE INCOME TAX

ADOPTION OF U. S. PLAN URGED

Pledges Support to American's Campaign to Aid Small Wage Earners

Stamping with his approval the campaign of the Boston Evening American to eliminate or reduce the state income tax, Mayor James M. Curley of Boston expressed his opinion on this much-discussed question in a letter today.

In aligning himself with the Boston Evening American's drive in aid of earners of small incomes, the mayor recommended a cut in the rate and substantial increase in exemption for the married man of low salary.

He also expressed his opposition to the recommendation of the special commission on taxation to reduce the tax on intangibles.

Mayor Curley's letter reads:

RAISE EXEMPTION

"To the Editor of the Boston Evening American: Your campaign for equability in State taxation is to be highly commended. That form of taxation, which would seem to give the greatest relief to those upon whom taxation rests most heavily, appears to be the income tax on salaries and wages.

"While a graded income tax may not be legal under the present constitution of the State, a remedy such as you suggest in lowering the rate of this kind of income should be adopted by the present Legislature. I believe there should be an immediate reduction of at least one-half per cent in the rate, and I favor a substantial increase in the exemptions to heads of families who are carrying heavy burdens in the care of children and family dependents.

"While the special commission on taxation has recommended to the Legislature that there be an exemption of $3000 for married taxpayers, or head of a family, with $250 for each dependent, if under 21 on the last day of the taxable year, or if incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective, I believe that these exemptions are not sufficient.

"I strongly favor the same exemptions that are provided under the federal income tax law, namely $2500 to the head of the family and $400 for each dependent, if under eighteen or otherwise incapacitated and living with the taxpayer. It seems to me that such a proposal would alleviate in part the burden on those least able to bear it, namely the heads of families, who have one or more children to maintain until they become self-supporting.

OFFERS ASSISTANCE

"I am strongly opposed to the recommendation of the special commission on taxation to reduce the tax on intangibles, more particularly interest and dividends, from six per cent to three per cent, for the reason that the greater part of such revenue is what may be called unearned income, as distinguished from salaries and wages, which is earned income.

"I will be glad to assist in every possible way your humane efforts to relieve the heavy taxation burden now placed upon the wage earner."

Many others prominent in Boston civic affairs continue to express their sympathy with the campaign, and offer their support.

Some of the comments follow:

ATTORNEY JAMES H. BALDWIN, of Boston: "I am heartily in favor of the principle advocated by the Boston Evening American relative to relieving the burden of taxation of wage earners, and of men whose small salaries are now barely sufficient for the support of their families.

"These classes in our community should be relieved from this over-burdening by taxation, and I sincerely hope that the suggestion or means advocated by the Boston Evening American, or any better means, if they may be presented, will be successful through legislative enactment, and relieve this condition of heavy burden to which I have referred."

Mrs. James Maxon, Sr.

James Maxon, Jr., left his home in Tennessee to attend school in New York. His father, an Episcopal bishop, and his mother sent him money each month to pay his way. James was a prodigal. He spent his time in wild living. The money from home was carelessly spent. Wine was purchased. The lad put on parties. He was considered a "good fellow." Now he's charged with killing a fellow lodger, David Paynter. The artist illustrates how a mother spent so little, so she could send money to her boy and how the boy spent his money in fast living. THREE DEAD IN CHALLENGE TO CAPONE

Peace Agreement of Chicago Gangland Shattered by Easter Slayings

Chicago, April 21 (AP)—The Bloody Hour added its grotesque gang murder, and a triple slaying Easter morning.

One man entered the speakeasy, placed a dollar bill on the bar and ordered beer. Two minutes later he ran out, the beer untouched, change from his dollar still on the bar—and three dead men on the sawdust floor.

Walter Wakefield, the fifth victim, lay dead behind the bar a bullet in the back of his head.

SHOT IN THE BACK

Frank Del Re, sometimes called Frank Dore, 33, also had been shot in the back.

Joseph Special, 28, partner of Del Re in the operation of the grocery, lay dead in front of the bar, shot in the chest as the assassin turned to meet his attack. In one dead hand Special clasped a knife. In the other gripped like a club, was the stock of a plaster saint.

Police here saw the murders as a move against the Al Capone gang, for the three slain men had been Capone adherents. They saw the crime both as a defiance to the reported peace agreement in gangland, and as a challenge to the Capone master-mind.

POLITICAL ANGLES

Wakefield, police found, was a precinct captain of Dan Serritella, city sealer and Republican power in the first ward. Serritella has been regarded as a friend of Capone. Wakefield and Del Re were active in the recent election in Serritella's successful campaign for committeeman.

A man whose name was withheld by police visited Wakefield on Saturday, attended a meeting of the Good Crackers Yeast and Pie Wagon Drivers' Union, local No. 734, and that Capone intended to take over the union.

The bride-to-be, however, intends to begin housekeeping on a small scale. She and her fiancé have purchased an apartment near the Via Salaria, and the question has arisen where to put all the presents.

EGG ROLL AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Washington, April 21—All the kids that could crowd into a tenacre lot jammed the south grounds of the White House today, had a glorious time, and, it must be related, messed up the premises.

2 Runaway Everett Boys' N. E. Talk Betrays Them

New York, April 21 (AP)—Their broad New England accents today cut short the careers of two school boys who intended to learn to fly and become famous like Lindbergh.

The plane of the boys, Edward McClung, 14, of 76 Nichols st., and Anthony Teeter, of 58 Jefferson st., Everett, Mass., went awry when they asked Patrolman Duckett where to find a telegraph office.

Duckett, a former inflielder with Boston Braves, recognized their accent and questioned them.

"We came down from Boston on a bus," they explained. "We want jobs as messenger boys so we can earn money to get to Roosevelt Field to learn to fly and become famous like Lindbergh. We got tired of Everett, it was too small."

Police turned them over to the Children's Society and notified their families.

FIND SKELETON AFTER 8 YEARS

New York, April 21 (AP)—The mysterious disappearance, eight and one-half years ago of Henry L. Norton, a native of Salisbury, Conn., Civil War veteran and prominent Mason, had been solved today with the identification of a skeleton found in a thicket two miles from Rose Sanitarium in Brentwood, N. Y.

Identification was made by two sons through a watch, a scarf pin, a pair of eyeglasses and other personal effects found about the thicket.

Mr. Norton disappeared two months before his 84th birthday. He had gone to the sanitarium for a rest. For months a search was carried on vigorously in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, but no trace of him was found, until a real estate development worker discovered a skeleton in the thicket Saturday, and notified state police who had Mr. Norton's name on their list of missing persons.

$303,000,000 IN BUILDINGS SET U. S. RECORD

Washington, April 21 (AP)—Secretary Lamont said today that awarding of $303,000,000 in public construction contracts during the first quarter of 1930 is 37 state-indicated that his estimate of $7,000,000,000 for the year would be fulfilled.

A new five-year record for the first three months was set by the awards this year.

Lamont said he expects a ready speeding up during the remaining three periods to carry the year's activities in public works and public utilities construction to the total he forecast.

The $7,000,000,000 program was estimated on a basis of reports of the government, state governments and officials of public utilities corporations. It would carry the year far ahead of 1929.

While the $303,000,000 would set a new first quarter record, the secretary said this figure undoubtedly would be swelled by reports from the other 11 states and from awards upon which reports were not received.

Thinking the freight had stopped at the depot, the young man, injured in the installation of automatic gauges in the road, was looking on the road instead of at the train. As the freight was practically upon him, he reversed and then leaped to safety.

Dearest Anne:

It's the week of the Easter afterglow, when we slip back into the whirl of social activities, with the radiance and joy of the Eastertide in our hearts. It's the week when the shops settle down to the staples of spring, and the permanent modes rear heads above the novelties. So curl up in a chair while I tell you of the news that's abroad this week:

Evelyn Is a Tempter

Anne, just as we were going to be an awful bore, she comes along with an After Easter Sale that you simply cannot resist. Here are just cram med with the newest of new things—real Evelyn Frocks—with their own youthful style for which she is well known. Those new embroidered crepe satins in one-piece and jacket styles are only $8.95 in this Sale. I saw a dream of a frock of blue and pink chiffon. She has prints that just breathe with vitality; wool crepe and silk suits that swank with a tailor-made look—and they are all included in this glorious After Easter Sale—at $8.95 to $12.95 up. Chiffon stockings, $1.15; Service weight, 89 cents. Evelyn Frocks Shop, 8 Winter St.

"Let's Get Acquainted"

invites the Public Service Cleaners, and my dear, if you knew what they could do for you and your soiled clothes, you certainly would take advantage of this invitation. Why, they are positive uneanny when it comes to restoring faded clothes. Frocks that look as though they had seen their last days are restored to a blaze of glory. Weather-beaten coats are given a tailor-made finish with their marvelous cleansing and pressing process—and their charge for coats and dresses is but $1. And, Anne—they have some beautiful hosiery on sale, special at 87 cents. Silk that will stand fons and service weight with lisle reinforcements—a rarity at $2 a pair. And they have all the new colors, too—Muscadine—Beige Clair, and so on. Hosiery repairing at 5 cents per stocking. Public Service Cleaners and Dyers, 39 Temple Place, 7th floor.

Elastic Stockings!

That "For Those" sale which Dr. Saul, chiropodist, ran, was a tremendous success for it filled the needs of everyone. And so he has been urged to run it again. "For those" who didn't get their requirements last time. All his stockings are made to his own specifications—most invisible seamless. For everyday wear, there is a stocking at $5.50 each; for "dress" stockings at $7.50 each, and an extraordinary stocking of thinnest Para-rubber at $8.75 each. Special for April, a to-the-knee style, invisible under silk hose is $4.75 a pair (none before sold at this price). Free repair service for first six months. For scientific treatment of corns, callouses and arches, see Dr. Saul, chiropodist, 110 Tremont St. Suite 310. Lib 6645. Mail orders.

And Virazol!

As cool and refreshing as a soft April shower. As nutritious as a flood of warm Spring sunlight! You can't keep your skin happy unless you treat it to that marvelous Swedish Face Bath that not only cleanses every pore—but delightfully bleaches discolored tissue, discourages superfluous hair, and brings a healthy, rosy glow to the skin surface. Economical, too—for at $1.25 a bottle you have a face bath, skin cleanser—and an astringent. After a Virozol Bath a soft patting with Virozol Face Powder ($1.25 a box) will give your skin a finished, satiny appearance. It comes in several beautiful skin tints—I like Egyptian Taupe, a warm flesh tint, and Taupe—a faint Sunfan. The Virozol preparations are sold at Houghton & Dutton Co. Toilet Goods Dept.

I Saw Peacocks on Parade Yesterday

Anne—gorgeously dressed peacocks who probably spent many dreamy hours planning their stunning Easter outfits—without giving a thought to their Easter hosiery. They wore hats that positively "cooed" with flattery and charm. Skirts that seemed to caress their new curved lines. Even shoes and bags were matched—but dear me—everybody seemed to have bought just "stockings"—never realizing how important the new lustreless hosiery has become. For although the very smart hosiery has lost its sheen—has become dull suave—rich with no gloss at all to mar its beauty which is stealth from the satiny skin it sheathes. If you haven't seen these stockings around town, you'll find that I mean in Filene's, for they have a most complete selection of the new Phoenix Dul-Sheer Hosiery, and particularly appealing one at $1.95. It's "dullness" is not a matter of "finish." It's woven right into the stocking by means of twisted threads and you can just imagine how many weeks of wear this sort of weave adds to hosiery. This particular stocking is chiffon, of course—all silk from top to toe, and of beautiful sheerness the new shades look like tinted mist. There is Wood, Amber, Burn, Greige. For a belated Easter gift or a Stocking Shower, there is a gorgeous grade at $2.95. You'll find them in Filene's Hosiery Section, street floor.

Looking for a Rainbow?

Something like this goes a certain popular song. You wouldn't expect to find a rainbow in Scott Furriers—New England's Largest Fur Establishment, 69 Summer St., Boston; but you're sure to be found there—a veritable rainbow of lovely-hued frocks and velvet evening wraps—from the palest of pastel tints to flaming autumn colors, blending into deep mauve and violet of the rainbow's outer edge! This is a new department for women, misses, juniors and smaller women—filled with attractive dresses, ranging in price from $9.95 to $18.50. Then, also, there are coats, both tailored, sports and for dress occasions, for $16.50 up to $85; and beautiful full-furred wraps, ranging in price from $15 up to $195. All New England women have the privilege of selecting any one of the three Scott Ways of Buying. You may pay cash if you prefer, open a charge account, or join the famous Scott Unique Fur Club—the only one in New England. All the New England stores of Scott Furriers, 69 Summer St., Boston; 306 Westminster St., Providence, and 51 Pratt St., Hartford, are open every evening until 9 o'clock. Let the "Sign of the Climbing Leopard" be your guide to a Scott Furriers' Store, where shopping is made both pleasurable and profitable.

Long May She Wave!

for she is a marvel! Who? Why our friend Miss Lillian E. Cunningham, whose twenty years' hairdressing experience surely ought to be guarantee enough of her wonderful waves. Miss Cunningham can't, of course, tell this valuable experience has taught her one thing—that no two types of hair can be waved alike—so she has four different permanent wave methods and will choose the one best suited to wave hair of your texture. There is the Eugene, aristocrat of them all—Nestle, Frederico and Bonat, and for April Miss Cunningham's special price is $10 including shampoo and setting wave. You will be entertained while having your wave by a palmist who will read your fortune. Miss Cunningham is at 961 Boylston St., Back Bay 9069.

Hip Reducer

A Real Hip Reducer! Gives real abdominal support! Gives real muscular control! No woman can look well dressed whose foundation garment lets the figure "bulge" and "spread." Beware of Elastic Webbing! This hip reducer is made without elastic webbing. Adjustable lacings on one side and hooks down the other. Convenient to put on. Corrects faulty posture, most comfy to wear. No two figures are alike for ever "Readymades." Capon's specializes in individual work which is easy to launder. No more expensive than fitting ready-mades. Call and see this and other unusual models. Capons, 110 Tremont St. Suite 310, (near Park St.) Liberty 6849.

"Made Over"

These are sweet words to my ear, Anne. Anne stands for economy—ingenuity—and that distinctive air which only individually made things can have. But first of all, it reminds me of Parker Bros. They who do such wonderful remodeling of all kinds of wearing apparel, from fur coats to your latest spring suit. I wish you could see the fur coat they made over for a friend of mine. Repaired it—relined it—and now it's positively stunning. Parker Bros. also store your winter things for you—safe from ambitious little moths, fire and burglars. Their prices for remodeling, repairing, and storage are very reasonable. Although cleansing prices have gone up all over the city, by special arrangement Parker Bros. still do coats and cloth dresses at $1. Parker Bros., 110 Tremont St., Rm. 309.

A Dress Without Cost!

Wait until you see the newly enlarged shop of the New York Dress Buying Co., Anne! It's grown to be a great big store, now! They really had to expand to take care of the crowds that visit them every day. For their prices and dresses have become famous. Three-piece tweed suits, brisk youthful prints, beautifully made, Georgettes and chiffons of fine material. Over a thousand styles to choose from at two prices—$3.75 and $6.75—and worth three or four times as much. They sell retail at wholesale prices and less and specialize in samples. If you can duplicate their values elsewhere, at their prices, they will give you a dress without charge. Refunds and exchanges within five days if tags have not been removed. New York Dress Mfg. Co., 515 Washington St., 2nd floor (near West).

Superfluous Hair

So many lovely complexions are not only marred—but completely ruined by this contrary growth only because many folks do not know that there is a safe, safe and a scientific way of removing it—and that is electrolysis or electric needle. So why suffer embarrassment in silence when you can have the services of an experienced electric needle specialist, who permanently removes the unwanted hair without pain or unpleasantness and leaves no disfiguring mark upon the skin. This specialist is one whom many pleased patrons will gladly recommend. He is James Brooke of 100 Boylston St. and you may call him for appointment at Lib. 4466. He'll be glad to advise you as to your own case, and his rates are quite agreeable.

For Large Hips

Those extra POUNDS on hips and diaphragm will go if you wear one of W. H. PHELPS & CO.'S reducing corsets. This corset lifts the abdomen without causing a bulge at the waistline, and reduces hips and diaphragm. It is a new idea which has been sanely tested and as it is pone it is cool and comfortable. It will be made to order to suit your figure and altered and remained for as you reduce, the price being regulated by the length of the corset. Be sure to try it on—see what it does for you, and be delighted. Write for further details, or call at W. H. PHELPS & CO., 28 Tremont St., HUB, 2490.

What Wallpaper Can Do

to a house you'll never know until you've torn off that elegant atrocity of the gay 90's and modernized it with the new Spanish Plastic wallpaper that can scarcely be told from plastered walls, or until you've invented a dreary room with the beautiful new Pastel effects that come in such charming, modernistic designs. Perhaps you've some lovely Colonial furniture that needs quaint background. Then the only thing for you is a visit to Cohan Grandberg—for advice, suggestions and wallpaper. They are wallpaper specialists who have the most surprising stock on hand that includes everything foreign and domestic at prices that range from the very lowest to the best. They'll be glad to have you consult them, without obligation. Their taste is perfect, their practical. Cohan Grandberg Co., 36 Bromfield St. (Opp. Province St.) Lib. 8419.

Spring Brings Romance!

It breathes adventure! It opens closed roads to happiness! It sets us all a-dreaming—a-wondering what the future holds. But not you are impatient to know your fortune, take a little trip to the Gipsy "T" Cup, where Katia—the Hungarian Gypsy Fortune Teller will interpret tea leaves for you. She'll pick your name right out of the cup. She'll tell you of the surprise that's coming within a two. You may ask her any questions you wish to know. And all this is free, after you've enjoyed the most delectable luncheon which the Gipsy "T" Cup serves at 75 cents. Steaming hot tea, assorted sandwiches—as many as you can eat—cake and teal The Gypsy "T" Cup is the most delightfully informal place where you can have your fortune read in utmost privacy, if you wish. It is at 64A Huntington ave., open from 11 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Want to Tap?

Want to reduce? Want to become light and limber, Anne? Then be sure you choose the right place to learn your tapdancing. There are many places in town, but one that stands out as head of the very best, in fact, is the Tangokian School of Dancing. Here a corps of proficient instructors, under the personal direction of the master, J. Tangokian, is always on hand from 10 A. M. to 11 P. M. to teach you the intricate steps of tap dancing. Or, if your prefer Russian Ballet, Toe, Stage or Exhibition, they are experts in every phase of the art of Terpsichore. The Tangokian School of Dancing is at 250 Huntington Ave., near Symphony Hall. Call by telephone or in person for appointment. Ken. 8186.

Didn't You Wish

you'd had your permanent when you were trying out the Easter bonnets, Anne? My hat was a fright—not a dent left in it. I just promised myself then and there that before I tried on another hat—or shopped through another April drizzle I'd have a permanent. Gilchrist's Beauty Shop is quite famous for their permanents and charge but $10. They use the new Frederic Method, and you won't find a wave with a bit of "kink" coming from Gilchrist's—for their operators are experts—permanent waves, and give wide, deep, glossy ripples, with curly ends, if you wish. There's a Hot Oil Special only Mon., Tues. and Wed.—a hot oil treatment, shampoo and any wave you wish—all for $1.75, instead of the regular price of $2.50. Inecto Notox hair dye is applied here and also sold for home use. Gilchrist's Beauty Shop, 3rd floor. Lib. 9700.

Goodnight, My Anne.

We've had such a glorious holiday that I'm ready and impatient to get to my round of the shops again, for I know I'll find some unexpected surprises. The first April "Spring" will start to show themselves off this week, and I want to be first to see them—and first to tell you about them, and so—for another week—

Devotedly yours,
Priscilla

PASSION PLAY THEATER IS REBUILT

Oberammergau, April 21—The greatest change in Oberammergau, where the Passion Play will be given starting May 11, is in the theater itself.

From the outside the theater still retains its box-like shape; it is the inside that has been done over to make it one of the most modern showhouses in the world.

All the technical arrangements—dressing rooms, scenery that sinks into the stage floor, orchestra pit, revolving stage, glass covering over the stage—have been worked out by experts.

SETTINGS ON ROLLERS

The 11 main settings are mounted under the stage on rollers. The entire auditorium is covered by a roof—no sun shades or umbrellas needed by the public. The glass covers only the center of the actual stage.

On each side of the stage, the audience gets a background of green mountains, bathed in sunshine or fog as the case may be. And on these uncovered portions of the stage the actors will go most of their work.

The reconstruction of the theater started in 1928, will cost over $250,000. Road construction into Oberammergau has cost about $200,000. In all, the town had to borrow $500,000 from America for preparations connected with the play.

EXPECT TO PAY DEBT

Burgomeister Mayr estimates that with good weather the receipts from the play this year should pay off the debt and the salaries of the 800 actors and persons working on the play.

The man on whom the greatest responsibility in connection with the play depends is Johann Georg Lang, director, producer, sculptor and vice-burgomeister.

"There Are Millions of Boneheads," Says Minister

"There are millions of boneheads in the world," President Rufus M. Jones of Haverford College, Pennsylvania, told a group of Congregational and Baptist ministers in Pilgrim hall today.

He voiced a plea for "more 100 candle power men" in the ministry, and as regards the "boneheads" he made no exception of the clergy, for he said, "They are everywhere."

Gloucestermen Land Mackerel Catches

Wildwood, N. J., April 21 (AP)—Racing close to 40 miles, three boats of the Gloucester, Mass., mackerel fleet landed the first big catch at Cold Springs Fisheries today and the 71,200 pounds of fish brought $22,250.

The St. Rita, first to arrive landed 30,000 pounds of fish. Close on her heels came the Col. Lindbergh, with 22,500 pounds.

Blaze at Ball Park

Officer Sued in Raid That Failed

Springfield, April 21 (AP)—Mrs. [illegible] prosecution as alleged by Hattie L. Wallis, vice-city, in a suit for $10,000 filed in court today against Lieut. Henry H. Blodgett, [illegible] in charge of police vice squad operations. The plaintiff alleges her house was raided in a search for narcotics and on violation [illegible] ment. She says she demanded that Blodgett give up the search, but he declared she must remove from the neighborhood.

I am able to take care of an eight room house and garden, at the age of 71 years. It is a wonderful medicine for women. They should give it a good trial by taking about five bottles."

Mrs. Bertha Stephens,

Letters From Readers

Something to Think About

Editor Boston American:

I have read with interest the various names that have been suggested and urged as possibilities for the position of police commissioner of the city of Boston, and I feel we have a man in Essex County who should at least be considered. He is a man who has already headed police departments, been engaged in prosecution of crime by the Federal Government, is a veteran, whose honesty is absolute, and who is even now the head of a police department doing reorganization work and cleaning up a city noted for the past few years for its inability to handle the liquor and crime problem.

He headed the same department before entering the federal service for seven years and whose services were found necessary by the same city this year. I put in nomination the name of City Marshal Daniel M. Casey of Gloucester, Mass., a man well fitted by years of experience to handle a job twice the size he is now in, and known as one of the crack investigators of the Department of Justice.

Lynn. "COMMON SENSE."

Rises to Defense of Womanhood

Editor Boston American:

Some people have a wrong idea about woman, as evidenced in your letter column. I agree with Will Durant, "It was woman who gave man agriculture and the home, the elements of civilization. She has domesticated the sheep and the pig. Man is woman's last domestic animal. The task of civilizing him has just begun."

There are a great many mistakes circulated about women in the past. A few are still seething in the present. But the equality of the sexes is more than ever coming to the surface. These are signs of the times.

There is to be no competition between the sexes, but equality of effort, intelligence and education, that both sexes may do their share in the common weal. Let us put the soft pedal upon sex inferiority and exalt the special gifts of both sexes. This trying to boom one sex to the detriment of another belongs to the jungle.

Praises Stand of Smith on Politics

Editor Boston American:

Every young man and woman should heed the advice which former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York handed to Yale students a few days ago.

He urged them to look upon politics as a possible career. They must not pride themselves on not knowing anything about politics. Whether or not, he thought, an individual is going to participate in the functions of government, he still has a responsibility to discharge to the exercise of his privileges and rights as a citizen, in accordance with the powers invested in him by the Constitution. He ought to join a party and should participate in every election where he is entitled to vote.

Politics as a field for human service offers a great opportunity for clear minded young men and women. This is so sensible that I venture to give your readers the gist of it and hope that the former governor will sound this note wherever he speaks.

On the Naming of the New Planet

Editor Boston American:

Prof. Shapley, of Harvard University, states that the new planet discovered by the Lowell observatory, Arizona, is now behaving very well. This is very welcome news, as up to date, it has not been named though such names as "Bacchus," "Pluto," "Percival" have been thrown at it.

If it gets tagged with "Percival" on it, by the way, a very respectable name, it will be out of the swim with the other planets, for they all have been labelled after the heathen gods.

No wonder, Dr. Shapley assures us that this new planet is behaving itself, as it hopes the ingenuity of astronomers will give it an euphonious name much better than the ones already quoted.

Harvard Professor Starts People Thinking

Editor Boston American:

Prof. T. N. Carver of Harvard University says some wise things that cling to your mind and start the circulation of thinking. When he said a few weeks ago that "youth today is in revolt against everything," he said a mouthful. "They revolt against conventions relating to obscenity and sex," he added.

"When these youths have families of their own and begin to think of their own children, there is not much doubt as to how they will then look at things.

"They will probably be quite as prudish and Puritanical as the rest of us. It is not improbable that they may go as much farther than we in that direction, as they now seem to be going in the direction of laxity."

Well said professor. I believe every word of this. Youth needs more experience. They must think for themselves and solve their own problems in their own way, but they must limit their looseness in thinking when they hear the bell of experience from their elders, ringing.

Urges War On Speed Maniacs

Editor Boston American:

There was a debate recently in the House of Representatives, requiring that motor vehicles for the carriage of passengers for hire, be supplied with non-shatterable glass in the windshield.

This may be necessary in some cases, but there is more important issues bearing upon the safety from autos than mere non-shatterable glass.

It was said in your letter column a week ago that drivers of autos who have had accidents should have their cars marked, especially those who are auto killers. This is not an unreasonable distinction. Those who have had accidents and killed persons are just as reckless as ever with continued speeding and turning corners of streets sharply, without any consideration for pedestrians. There are a goodly number in Boston who have manslaughter hanging over them and it ought to be a nightmare with them. But it does not make them any more careful as I have verified upon two occasions lately.

Wants Animals Killed By Electricity

Editor Boston American:

There is some talk of killing hogs by electrocution in this locality. It has been found practical in Munich, Germany, where I believe, it originated. The process is so simple in action that it ought to be adopted everywhere. Old methods of killing animals for food in the country towns is often cruel and brutal. Electrocution ought to replace it by establishing central stations within easy access, where animals could be put out of existence by the most humane method. We have improved in so many ways that the killing of animals still remains a piece of ancient history as far as methods are concerned.

Winthrop Woman Wins Weekly $5 Prize

WINTHROP WOMAN WINS WEEKLY RECIPE PRIZE.

ONE OF the charter members of the Martha Lee Women's Club, Mrs. Martha A. Ridley of Prospect st., Winthrop, has this week joined the ranks of the prize winning cooks. Her Chocolate Drop Cookies were judged by the cooking committee unanimously as worthy of being among those first to be able to give a recipe for publication.

And no one wanted a second helping can believe we were perfectly willing to oblige.

As Mrs. Ridley writes, these are a particularly delicious crunchy and chewy cookie, especially beloved of the men folks, but equally appropriate for the bridge party, and triply valuable in pleasantly providing the kiddies with their daily quota of oatmeal.

Here is the secret of their composition:

CHOCOLATE DROP COOKIES.

½ cup Land-O-Lake butter.
1 cup Domino sugar.
1 egg.
1 tbsp. milk.
½ tsp. salt.
1½ cups quick cooking oats.
2 tsps. baking powder.
1 cup Ceresota flour.
2 squares chocolate.
¼ cup Hood's milk.
½ tsp. Baker's vanilla.

Cream butter and sugar. Add egg beaten slightly and melted chocolate. Sift flour, salt and baking powder and combine with quick cooking oats. Add alternately with the milk, add vanilla. Drop from tip of spoon on buttered cookie sheet, 2 inches apart. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 12 to 15 minutes. If you wish, press a large seeded raisin on top of each cookie.

P. S.—The conditions governing this weekly recipe prize contest are very simple, you know. Recipes must be reliable, as original as possible, reasonably economical, and must contain one or more of the food products advertised in this newspaper. Address all entries to Martha Lee, 9 Winthrop st., Boston.

Camille Den Dooven's Recipes for Sauces

At last we have found room to print the recipes for the sauces demonstrated by K. Camille Den Dooven, at the graduation exercises in the Martha Lee cooking classes. They certainly deserve an honored place in your scrap book.

SAUCE VELOUTE.

Brush a casserole or saucepan with lard; sprinkle in a layer of vegetables cut fine, carrots, onion, celery, etc.; on top of this a few strips of chicken or veal, moistened with 1 c. of bouillon, reduce on strong fire without taking cover off. Then add some more chicken consomme or bouillon; remove the scum and move the casserole to the side of the fire, add a bouquet of herbs, a few strips of ham, 2 mushrooms, pass through a cloth. Prepare a sauce blended from 2 tbsps. flour, 1 tbsp. butter. When ready add the sauce until of the proper thickness.

ORANGE AND GINGER ALE PUNCH

Two cups sugar, 1 cup water, thinly peeled rind of 2 oranges and 2 lemons, 2 large bottles of pale ginger ale, juice of 8 oranges, juice of 2 lemons. Simmer together the sugar, water and orange and lemon rind for 10 minutes. Strain. Add the juice of the oranges and lemons and chill. Just before serving add the ginger ale, which also has been thoroughly chilled. Decorate with orange slices.

SAUCE HOLLANDAISE AU BUERRE FONDU

Melt in a double boiler ½ c. butter, place in saucepan a few pepper corns, 2½ tbsp. vinegar and reduce to about half, add the yolks of 2 eggs and beat well, then add half of the butter and place on a light fire and beat until of the proper consistency. Then strain and add the rest of the butter.

WALNUT CAKE

½ cup butter.
1 cup sugar.
2 eggs.
1½ cups unbleached flour.
1½ tsp. baking powder.
½ cup milk.
¾ cup chopped walnuts.

Beat the butter and sugar, add the eggs, nuts and milk, then the flour and baking powder sifted together. Beat very thoroughly and bake in a shallow loaf cake pan. When cool frost with white frosting.

Pretty Shades Now Showing

How often do you change your lamp shades? This is a detail that perhaps has not had the attention it merits, but there are few things that create a more pleasing transformation than to change one's lamp shades with the coming of spring.

It puts a feeling of newness in the home without the considerable expense entailed by entire change of hangings, floor coverings and slip covers, so frequently advocated. The stores show very summery shades at prices so moderate that almost any home can afford a change.

Lovely shades of eggshell parchment paper, delightfully handstamped and available in one up-town store in 5-inch size at $8.50 and larger ones at proportionate prices. They are well worth seeing.

SAUCE BLANCHETTE

Prepare a veloute sauce, add a small onion sliced very thin, ½ c. cream, and boil again. Add a few cuts of butter.

Far More Curves

ITS CHEERING news to those of us who have been futilely struggling to take off those too solid pounds to hear that the vogue of the boyish figure has reached its peak and is on the decline.

Even business men have taken a stand for more curves and less dieting among their feminine employes. The ultra-slender, pale and anemic looking applicant for a position is very frequently turned aside in favor of her more robust looking sister.

"For many years we have been doing everything we could to think of to improve working conditions in order to keep our girls well and happy," said an official of a Pennsylvania corporation. "We've spent tens of thousands of dollars, but there has been more sickness instead of less lately. Investigating the reason of this, we find that too much dieting can be held responsible for much of this illness. We are going to have a series of lectures now in our institution stressing the value of a well-balanced diet and pointing out the ill-effects of following harmful fads that lead the girls to deprive themselves of sweets and other energy-producing foods."

SAUCE BECHAMEL

Slice in a saucepan one small onion, a small carrot. Add 2 tbsp. butter and cook together. Add a little ham cut in dices, about ¼ cup dusted, with 2 tbsps. bread flour. Cook for a few minutes on a slow fire, add slowly milk to make a thick sauce. Add gradually some good bouillon of chicken or veal when the liquid is absorbed. The sauce has to be slightly of a creamy appearance.

Boil again and let simmer on the side of the fire for about 10 minutes to 20. Add salt, a few spices and a bouquet of parsley; strain and add a few slices of mushrooms. Bring to a fast boil. Add ¼ c. cream.

Southern Asparagus and Artichokes Tempting

When you're counting your blessings, don't forget to include the fact that South Carolina asparagus is being received in Boston in sufficiently large quantities to permit of unusually low prices for this time of year. Thirty-nine to 49 cents for dandy big bunches is certainly reasonable. And I don't need to repeat that asparagus is one of the most delightful as well as efficacious—whatever that means—of our spring vegetable tonics.

Globe artichokes are so plentiful, too, that the retail price is only 5 cents each low enough to introduce to almost any family this comparatively little known and usually very expensive vegetable. Write me for special artichoke recipes, if you are interested.

Tomato prices are dropping, too, praise be, with generous shipments coming from Florida. A few local hothouse tomatoes are found at 50 cents a pound, but the Southern variety are only 10 cents to 18 cents a pound. New potatoes are in at 8 cents to 12½ cents a pound, and they certainly are well worth it. Try them rolled in butter and chopped parsley after a rapid boiling in salted water and serve with juicy hamburg balls or cube steaks.

Old crop potato prices are pretty high—48 cents to 57 cents for 15 pounds with some as high as 75 cents a pound and Prince Edward Island old potatoes 65 cents to 72 cents for 15 pounds. Sweet potatoes are 7 cents to 10 cents a pound and none too good at that.

The makings for many a luscious spring salad come from our neighboring market gardeners—native lettuce, scallions, cucumbers and radishes.

Oranges are still high, but grapefruit and lemon prices are moderate and pineapples are quite abundant. California cantaloup are occasionally found, but are expensive at 60 cents each.

Easter ham specials are advertised everywhere, and tradition makes it just as essential to have ham on Easter as turkey on Thanksgiving. Lamb is reasonable at 29 cents to 33 cents for shoe legs. Fresh killed ducklings are attracting considerable attention at 35 cents a pound for the best.

Fresh mackerel have arrived at 60 cents a pound for the first of the season. Herring, or alewives, are 20 cents to 12½ cents a pound and lobster prices have dropped several cents—live chicken lobsters ranging from 45 cents to 48 cents apiece, averaging one pound each. The large lobsters are 53 cents to 55 cents a pound.

Egg prices continue to be unusually low and another spring special is high quality maple syrup—Vermont fancy grade—retailing for $3 a gallon or $1 a quart can. Write me for maple candy recipes, if you feel ambitious and the maple flavor as well as I do.

THIRTY-MINUTE MENU

Baked Cheese Dreams
Scalloped Tomato
Orange Salad with French Dressing
Bread and Butter
Quince Marmalade
Cottage Pudding
Butterscotch Sauce
Coffee Milk

Make cheese sandwiches of whole wheat bread (adding mustard if desired) and place in buttered utility dish. Make a custard with 1 egg beaten in 1 cup of milk and pour over the sandwiches. Sprinkle generously with salt and paprika.

Prepare scalloped tomatoes in a casserole. As a change from the usual bread crumb top, this dish is very attractive topped with buttered bread cubes.

Mix the pudding and put in greased pie plate.

Bake all these dishes about 30 minutes in a hot oven 400 F.

Bargains in Canned Food

THIS IS the time of the year when many of our favorite canned foods are cheaper than any other time, particularly many of the canned vegetables.

Among the best buys are peas, corn, spinach, string beans, tomatoes, baby beets, and baby limas. In some localities medium sized cans of spinach are two for 27 cents, while many of the small cans of vegetables, the eight-ounce can which is sufficient to serve one person, are three cans for a quarter. Sauerkraut is found at three cans for 50 cents.

There are many sales in the chain stores now of condensed and evaporated milk. Careful housewives will remember at this time of the year dealers are clearing their shelves for the new packs which will soon come in, now that the canning season is getting under way. And when dealers are clearing their shelves, commodities are cheaper, and it is the time to lay in a stock of canned green things, canned fruits, and canned fish.

In making up your market list put down a note to watch for the sales of canned foods which are occurring right along now and which will make possible some real savings in your budget.

To avoid a ring after cleaning with gasoline, rub spot on washable goods with a strong solution of salt before applying the gasoline. The gasoline odors, by the way, can easily be removed from your hands by rubbing with a little moist salt.

GIRL UNAFRAID

By Gladys Johnson

CHAPTER 38

CECILE'S voice was low and full of shock with anger.

"Don't keep throwing that up to me—making that the excuse to tyrannize!"

"Oh, no one's trying to tyrannize over you, Cecile," Ken's voice was weary. He crossed to her and put a hand gently on her shoulder. "Dear, I know you're all upset, but please try to be calm. I'm only thinking for you—"

"Calm!" Her face was convulsed. "I'm trying to forget the damn thing! And if I was go to Coralie's houseparty and forget it for a while, I'm going."

"But, Cecile," he said, patiently, "it isn't that I don't want you to have any pleasure. It isn't even that I don't like Coralie. But you know what it will mean if you go there. Drinking—and dancing. You know the doctor said—"

She flung off his hand. "Don't you quote the doctor at me! I don't give a single pin for you or the doctor—no, nor the damn baby! It had no right to come! I don't want it! It's unfair—unfair—"

Two hectic spots burned in her cheeks. Storms raged in her eyes. He fought to keep his own temper.

"Well . . . let's forget it, dear. I don't want to get you excited. Anyway, we don't have to decide now."

She rang the bell for the maid, and when the girl appeared she curtly ordered her to pack the grips.

But in the living room Ken paced the floor scowling and uncertain. No use trying to stop her. They'd had too many of these scenes lately. Cecile would only fly into a tantrum . . . get herself all worked up . . . the doctor said to keep her calm. Let her have her own way. Little by little the surroundings of the room crept in on his thoughts. Shaded lamps, priceless vases, expensive hangings . . . Oriental rugs glowing like jewels under foot, dark and rich. He looked at them sardonically. They gave an illusion of comfort which vanished before him like water before the thirsty Tantalus.

Suddenly he was stifling in their richness . . . He snatched up his hat. Went to the garage for his car.

His own car . . . something of his own, bought with his money. The thought was comforting. Its consonance pricked him. That was small, perhaps . . . just because Cecile had money he shouldn't begrudge her the use of it. But having it all, the way she did it—the things she said, hurt a man's pride.

He found himself remembering his latest discord. Coralie Gaines was a rather notorious divorcee. Her summer home had gained glittering fame for its hilarious parties and the high stakes of its bridge games.

Well, Cecile could afford to lose a few hundred if she would be such a fool. But the drinking—and the dancing . . . Ken's brows drew together nervously. The doctor had warned her . . . A child. How strange, that he and Cecile would have a child. Cecile who frankly disliked all children . . .

Rather a dreadful responsibility to bring a new—and perhaps unwilling—soul into the world. Underneath that cool self-possession, did Cecile feel something of this awe-struck pity he knew?

If she did, she hid it well. The discovery of her condition had promptly flung her into hysterics. She was frantic with alarm and dislike. Her temper, always uncertain, became more than usually capricious. She made it an excuse for self-indulgence.

While he was thinking this Ken had been idly driving through the morning sunlight along streets oddly deserted for Sunday. Now he found, with a leap of his heart, that he had unconsciously been obeying old habit. Half a block away, was Ardeth's hotel.

A smothered excitement stirred in his mind. The longing to see her again swept down upon him. If he could only roll past the last few months. To be again where he was before his mother's illness. How many times he had driven down this street on a Sunday morning to find Ardeth waiting for him before the hotel.

Sitting here in the car with him, slender and lovely. Golden eyes meeting his own with such warm frankness. Dear bright hair—the joyousness of her . . .

His heart leaped and for a moment he had the sensation of moving through a dream.

Ardeth—that was Ardeth standing before the hotel entrance. Slim white coat, white felt hat pulled down over her eyes—Ardeth!

He was reaching for the brake when she suddenly crossed the pavement.

And then Ken saw what he had been too excited to notice before. Tom Corbett's roadster drawn up in the curb. Tom, smiling into the girl's eyes as he opened the door of the car. Ardeth got in and they drove away. Neither of them had seen Ken.

Ken took his bitter thoughts over to the duck shack. The silence of a summer day brooded over the salt marsh. His own footsteps alone woke a lonely echo as he walked down the plank to the little houseboat basking in the sunshine.

He flung himself on the faded cushions piled on the rattan couch and lay there smoking and staring over the empty miles.

Smell of warm mud and warm sun grass. The soft lapping of the incoming tide on the planks. Above all, an empty grey-blue sky bending in aching loneliness. There was peace of a kind here. A grey-covered peace, tinged with resignation.

No resignation in Ken's heart, though. He was burned up with unbearable jealousy at the memory of Ardeth getting into Tom's car . . . Ardeth . . . his girl . . . Everything over here spoke of her, turning the knife in the wound. On this couch he had first kissed her . . . A year ago—only a year ago and she had been here with him, the sun gleaming on her hair, warm and sweet in his arms . . . That golden Sunday only a year ago! And now he had not even the right to dream of her. . . .

"Electrical Man" Will Switch B. & M. Trains

Installation of an "electrical man" train dispatching system, to control 76 miles of the Boston & Maine Railroad's Portland division from Dover, N. H., to Rigby, Me., and from North Berwick, Me., to Rigby, will be started early in May.

When the system, to cost $450,000, is completed in October, two "electrical men," one at Dover, N. H., and the other at Biddeford, Me., will be checking and double checking the operations of all trains over those stretches of tracks.

The "electrical man" system will permit two towermen to operate all switches and signals on 76 miles of tracks. It will displace the time-honored written train orders, make operations fool proof, and do away with the laborious work of throwing switch levers by hand.

Beauty of line and mechanical excellence

BEAUTY has been built into the graceful flowing lines of the new Ford and there is an appealing charm in its fresh and varied harmony of color. Yet more distinctive even than this beauty of line and color is its alert and sprightly performance. « « « «

As days go by you will find that it becomes more and more your favorite car to drive—so responsive, so easy to handle, so safe and comfortable that it puts a new joy in motoring.

The city dweller—the farmer—the industrial worker—the owner of the spacious two-car garage in the suburbs—to all of these it brings a new measure of reliable, economical service.

Craftsmanship has been put into mass production. Today, more than ever, the new Ford is "a value far above the price." « « « « « « « « «

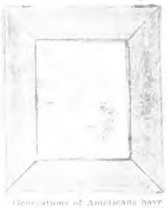
Daily Antique

No. 76



Generations of Americans have gazed into this old mirror, and generations of faithful reflections have gazed back. Finally, time has dimmed its once clear depths, and imagination only can conjure up the scenes which have passed before its glass in the past 300 years.

The little mirror shown today was once owned by Gov. William Bradford. It came with him in boat mementoes voyage of the Mayflower in 1620, according to family tradition. It has remained in the Bradford family through the centuries, and is now owned by one of Gov. Bradford's direct descendants, Mrs. H. H. Peirce, of 200 Boylston st., Boston.

In connection with the Massachusetts Tercentenary Year, the Boston Evening American is publishing daily photographs of interesting antiques. Owners of genuine antiques, particularly of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. If a photograph is not available, the American will send a cameraman to photograph the antique, provided the owner lives in Greater Boston. Address the "Antique Editor, 8 Winthrop sq., Boston.

Ensembles Are Still Popular

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris, April 21.

THE ELABORATELY simple ensemble has its niche in the wardrobe. It is generally of a soft shade in heavy sheer or fine soft silk or woolen material, and is cut in intricate manner to achieve a simple but often striking silhouette. Gracious dignity is its keynote, and fine fur trimming usually contrives to put such a costume in the luxury class and make the wearer of it the cynosure of many admiring eyes.

Such an ensemble bestows quite an "air," and so each season sees certain designers who have made a practice of making these garments, outdoing their previous efforts with striking and alluringly feminine creations. Various shades of gray, biscuit and deep beige seem to lend themselves particularly well to the dressy ensemble designed specifically for formal daytime activities.

LUCIEN LELONG is one of the couturiers who is considered especially adept in his creation of lovely, soft ensembles designed on intricately simple lines. And so, we are very pleased to be able to send you two sketches of a new ensemble made by this clever couturier. It demonstrates cleverly the use of two materials to form a harmonious costume.

The first sketch is of the two-thirds length coat, which is of greige wool poplin, very light in texture. The border of the slashed cape and the standing collar are of blue fox. The straight, close-fitting sleeve has a slashed overpiece reaching to below the elbow.

THE FROCK sketched completes the ensemble. It is entirely of greige georgette, with many circular flounces, including a deep bib at the front of the bodice, to lend a touch of extreme softness and femininity to the silhouette. The sleeves end at the elbow and are finished with deep flounces.

Name Senators for Postoffice Probe

Washington, April 21 (AP) Vice-President Curtis today named the five senators who will form the special committee to investigate federal leases at postoffice buildings. Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, will be chairman. The others are Senators Hastings, Delaware, and Hebert, Rhode Island, Republicans; George, Georgia, and Hayden, Arizona, Democrats.

Senator Blaine is the author of the resolution authorizing the inquiry.

First of Thorne's Four Wives Sues

Chicago, April 21—Mrs. Virginia Miller Thorne of Long Island, first of Gordon K. Thorne's successors of four wives, has announced her intention through her attorney to sue her former husband for $137,500.

Two claims will be filed against this fund, the attorney said. One claim is for $130,000, which counsel asserts the claimant's mother-in-law guaranteed to pay if Gordon failed to keep up his alimony.

Bung Quits Police Job, London Hears

London, April 21 (AP)—Various London morning papers today said that Gen. Lord Byng of Vimy, former governor general of Canada, had resigned his post as commissioner of London police and head of Scotland Yard.

Lord Byng is still in South America where he went with Lady Byng about two months ago to recuperate from a serious illness. Nothing official could be obtained either in denial or confirmation of the report of his resignation.

Why drive your own car, or jam yourself into street cars or trains, when this modern home-to-office service is at your command at reasonable rates.

Day or night, alone or in parties, you can depend on BEACON HILL for reliable service at economical rates.

BEACON HILL takes the children to school every morning in a dozen Greater Boston communities. Mothers know they are safe from every street danger, and that they get to school on time. We can render this service for your youngsters, too.

Shopping and matinee trips by BEACON HILL are increasingly popular with discriminating women. They appreciate the new, roomy and stylish cabs of the BEACON HILL fleet; and they feel in all ways secure with a BEACON HILL operator at the wheel.

A Story of Some Folks Who Might Be in Your Office - or Your Husband's

What Has Gone Before

When [illegible] Linda Eaton [illegible] Miss Dick [illegible] "I'll manage [illegible] Patrick [illegible] A woman [illegible] hold him [illegible] this [illegible] respect.

CHAPTER VIII

Linda Eaton [illegible] some [illegible] her attitude [illegible] self [illegible] was beautiful [illegible] Boone [illegible] when [illegible] she was not [illegible] existence.

The Eatons had [illegible] lished [illegible] sensitive [illegible] Mr. [illegible] said [illegible] Linda. Eaton, was fond of Linda [illegible] of age.

At 17 he had [illegible] much [illegible] about. Her [illegible] unconscious [illegible] gloss of [illegible] her lack of [illegible] fires [illegible] and fevers [illegible] a tremendous appeal for him. So, loving her, he had married her. She had never regretted [illegible] although he was not aware that his affection for her was [illegible] and [illegible] as if they had been 10 years married.

Fondness

But the Eatons Had Drawn Apart

There was no child. Not long after her marriage Linda had been thrown in the [illegible] the child [illegible] period of [illegible] had been forced to [illegible] possess her soul [illegible] She had resented [illegible] completely, but Eaton's [illegible] passionate dream of [illegible] splendid sons and pretty, [illegible] daughters had, perforce [illegible] vanish forever.

So they were fond of [illegible] each other now, but they had outgrown [illegible] each other. They had little in common. Their interests [illegible] apart. And that best sunny passion [illegible] no longer existed.

Each was too busy [illegible] to give much time to heart-searching. Yet each, had reached a perilous period in development. The man was nearing 40, the woman had passed 30. The rose blossom flush of youth was gone. They stood [illegible] for [illegible] of their prime [illegible] second flowering.

Now Linda Eaton [illegible] of some [illegible] fascinating [illegible] of a certain [illegible] woman's secret love affair [illegible] had been [illegible] given all the pitiless [illegible] perils of the times, a [illegible] divorce, a complete betrayal and repudiation of [illegible] road, [illegible] the world says, "Huntington Who could be [illegible] of him with a wife and [illegible] be needed [illegible] a month [illegible] and contempt would [illegible] a keen pang of could it be envy?

He never inquired into the nature of these unexplicable experiences. Yet involuntarily he would wonder what it might be like to be caught up by a devastating force which swept everything before it, which knew no law save the fulfillment of its lawlessness which scorched and tormented, battered and hurried, and which contained its own punishment and its own reward.

If he had ever heard [illegible] gods or, more accurately, goddesses calling, he had not followed their alluring voices [illegible] far. He had not been guilt-

But Eaton Cannot Use the Club Much

Eaton said:

I know. I'm sorry. Yes. I'll go in with you, Dick, but I can't promise to use the place much.

"How about wives?" Linda asked in her deep, lazy voice. "Am I permitted to invade these sacred premises?"

As far as I am concerned you are not only permitted but urged and welcomed," Jameson told her [illegible]. Linda smiled across at him. She and Eaton [illegible] He was still a good sort. And also quite what [illegible] Vanya was supposed [illegible] Western Coun[illegible] for further [illegible] with the Ivy Pierce Co. A BEST? ALWAYS!

There is a best . . . always . . . in industry no less than in art. Even in gasoline! Most motor fuels look alike. But all do not perform alike. Not even all fuels containing Ethyl. ¶ For the Ethyl part of each is a few drops only. The rest is gasoline. How various Ethyl gasolines compare, therefore, depends on the gasoline. ¶ The gasoline part of Colonial Ethyl is Colonial Gas, pure and powerful—a gasoline which, without benefit of anything but its own striking merit, has become the settled choice of a large share of all New England and New York State Motorists. ¶ Those who know by experience what Colonial Gas can do, need no further assurance that Colonial Ethyl is the cream of the Ethyl field. Which means—since Ethyl is a necessary part of any "best" gasoline today—that it is the finest you can buy. ¶ As further evidence, consider this: Colonial Ethyl shows a sharp superiority in knock-rating over any other Ethyl on the market. Try it today!

NEWS OF New York Curb BOSTON Trends of the Day MARKETS

Trend is Right, but Pace Slow; Stock Outlook

Comparisons With 1929 Getting Better; Stock Rise Due Later?

—By B. C. FORBES—

New York, April 21 Easter trade proved spotty. Bad weather interfered in certain sections.

The industrial trend is moving in the right direction, but slowly.

B. C. Forbes

A gricultural prices continue to fluctuate irregularly, but the major down - swing apparently has been checked.

Improvement in employment can be described as moderately encouraging.

During its four days' operation the stock market lost ground slightly.

Statistical comparisons with a year ago are becoming less unfavorable. This is true of railway car loadings, of bank clearings, of steel output, of construction operations, of new business obtained by many enterprises.

There is little reason to doubt that the gap between 1930 and 1929 figures will gradually be lessened. The first half was distinctly the best period of last year. After the heartiness of it, although this did not become clearly apparent until towards the end of the third quarter.

Unless all calculations miscarry, the second half of this year will show marked improvement over the first half. Indeed, favorable comparisons with last year may be achieved in many lines during the fall and winter.

This country is not escaping from the almost universal downward trend in commodity prices. America's level is at the lowest since 1917. The most notable price change last week was the reduction in copper from 18 to 14 cents a pound. Considerable foreign buying immediately developed. The new quotation has not brought overwhelming domestic response, but the expectation is that consumers must and will shortly place more liberal contracts. The way-ing in many corporations' planning huge expenditures will be substantial.

Prices are none too firm in some divisions of the steel industry. Competition has become extremely spirited. The harmony maintained more or less during the Gary dominion has gone. Capacity has been unset through the reaching out by independents for more business and by merger maneuvers.

The oil industry is finally making genuine progress in getting its house into order. Dogmatic shipping is enjoying something approaching a boom. In both industries mergers of magnitude are under consideration.

The most significant monetary development of the week was the payment of better than a 2 per cent premium by J. P. Morgan & Co. for an issue of 4 per cent New York State bonds. This was promptly interpreted as meaning that the greatest banking house in the world has figured out that money will continue cheap.

Industrial stocks show appreciable change. Another increase, of $130,000,000, in brokers' loans evoked little comment on Wall Street. The fact that the total, as announced by the Federal Reserve Bank, has now reached $4,124,000,000, an increase of $783,000,000 in less than three months, is accepted as eliminating all possibility of any further reduction in the New York 3½ per cent rediscount rate, or possibility which recently threatened but recently discussed hopefully.

Domestic bonds sagged each day last week. Numbers of high-yielding foreign issues did better.

What of the stock market?

One well-informed student of the stock market, R. W. McNeel, makes these observations:

"The stock market has never had a more logical advance. It has always had substantial and immediate recovery following our periodic panics, invariably without reaction, and regardless of poor business. That was the record in 1903, 1907, 1910 and 1920, and it is the record again in 1930.

"The records show conclusively that anyone who purchases sound stocks within six months following a panic has practically unfailing substantial profits.

"The chief factor which has kept so many investors from buying stocks since the panic last fall, is contemplation of the business situation, but following a panic business is always relatively good, and anyone who bases his investment program after a panic on a study of the immediate business situation is certain to be wrong.

"Cheap money rather than the immediate business situation is always the dominant stock market factor following a panic."

Brisker business is much more desirable at this stage than brisker speculation. That the latter will materialize before the year is over is a reasonably safe prediction.

Irving Fisher Commends Trend to Diversification in Industry

AUTO ACCESSORIES SCOPE IS GREATLY ENLARGED

By Irving Fisher
Professor of Economics, Yale University

New Haven, Conn., April 21—The notable trend to diversification of business, thus reducing investment risks, is nowhere better shown than in the industry of making automobile parts. This is because those in the line place their eggs in several baskets, instead of putting them all in the one basket of automobile manufacture, for their products are needed whether automobiles are sold or not. If there is a good year like 1929 more will be sold, but if there is a poor year like 1930 fewer will be sold. Such happen to fall for how the 1929 sales facture of an entire refrigerator. The automobile accessories business, however, has always been a diversified one. Most of the parts of many cars are made of thermoplastic material. That is, they have softened the material from which they are made so that it can be worked into shape, as seen in the case of a toilet bowl company. Others have developed new possible uses of bakelite with the railroad. This company recently supplied a dining car complete with upholstered chairs which is now being tried out on the Pennsylvania Railroad. Bakelite sheets are utilized in factories and in selling fine designs for signs. Engineering experts are extended to other types of machinery. This now rightly is called diversification in miniature.

PROMISING OUTLOOK

The hope for 1930 in the automobile parts and accessories industry must be considered fairly promising. Improvement over the long period of last fall is already noticeable. For January, for instance, the Motor and Equipment Association has compiled a sales index of 132, which is 10 points further than the production of the industry are divided into four divisions. One group supplies parts to producers of original equipment; another group supplies parts and materials to replace worn materials or automobiles already in use. A third group stood at 147 for January, 1930. For December, 1929, the index was 135, and for January, 1929, it stood at 141. This really constituted a normal output.

"Garage equipment" refers to tools and other equipment used by mechanics in servicing automobiles in garages. The index which stood at 172 for January, 1929, fell to 151 for December, 1929, and rose to 159 for January, 1930.

"Original equipment" now by far the largest segment of the industry, consists of parts supplied to automobile factories for the manufacture of new cars. The index was 212 for January, 1929, 124 for December, 1929, and rose to 159 for January, 1930.

Despite the 25 per cent decline in the automobile segment, stood at 79 for January, 1930, as against 57 for December, 1929.

USEFUL INDICATOR

The action of the two latter groups, therefore, is a useful history and prophecy of the 1930 industry as a whole.

To begin with, the accessories group, on the whole, during the present index of 79 has fallen from the 1925 par as much as the other divisions have fallen. This means simply an extra equipment like motormeters, tonometers, clocks, speedometers, etc., installed originally—are not being bought in quantities as formerly by the automobile owner. Two reasons are responsible for this diminishing of the investment. One is that this car will extraordinary act, and the fact that most of the practical accessories have been developed to original job as refused by the public for.

This tendency brought about a new condition in the period following the 1929 crash, that is, many new manufacturers, made and many turned to contracting their products. They found that as well as much as possible of its parts and accessories. This tendency was especially true of Ford, but other makers also rallied around to their facilities for integration.

IDEA DROPPED

For a time this threatened disaster to the companies in the accessories industry. But during 1929 Ford began manufacture of its own parts, and the possibility of further integration was thereby found. Many companies, therefore, dropped the idea of contracting their products. Others automobile makers have now remembered their own facilities and, instead of increasing, have actually decreased the number of purchased parts.

Other automobile makers have followed the example of Ford in this respect, and the trend toward integration has been checked. Many companies which had been contracting their products have now resumed their own manufacture. Others have increased the number of purchased parts.

WALL STREET "SKY-LINE" OF MARKET TRANSACTIONS

OLDHAM GIVES NEW IDEA FOR RAIL MERGERS

Voluntary consolidation of railroads by the many independent units, with the aid of the Interstate Commerce Commission was advocated by John E. Oldham, before the Bond Club of Philadelphia. Mr. Oldham is president of Atlantic Corp., affiliated with Atlantic National Bank of Boston.

Mr. Oldham believed if such consolidations were arranged out in this way, we would have much better regulation and better movable transportation in time. If we finally are able to carry out the provisions of the Transportation Act of 1920, the country will get better service, more adequate service and lower rates, he said.

Commenting on the statement of one member of the Commerce Commission, that consolidations would not result in great operating economies, Mr. Oldham said he had never found anyone who believed there would be great economies.

The economy that probably would result in future from consolidations would be that the whole development of the country would be different and there would be large savings in avoiding duplications.

It is entirely possible to formulate a rail grouping along lines laid down in the Transportation Act, Mr. Oldham said. But lately we have had no action on part of the commission, one commissioner saying there would be no great benefits after the consolidation and that railroad credit is now as good as is necessary and consolidations will not help.

Railroad credit is better than for years, Mr. Oldham said, but it would seem we are just now much in need of solving the consolidation problem recently as we ever were. We still have the questions of rates and of valuations which must be settled.

Delay caused by the Commerce Commission, Mr. Oldham said, in formulating a plan, for consolidation of railroads with only one thing to do with the matter, is unfair, he said.

Mr. Oldham said he had plans for consolidation. Mr. Oldham said voluntary consolidations with the concessions which he said they were presented, would bring than need results and immensely benefit the present situation.

AIR INVESTORS SHOWS GAIN

Air investors, holding securities of 18 representative aviation and allied enterprises, shows a liquid, paper profit of $1,263 a share on its $5 a share preference stock, currently quoted at $20. Harvey L. Wilson, president, announced today. This is an increase from $24.40 as of November 21, 1929, a growth of $1,263 per share. The valuation includes cash plus listed securities at market value as of April 14, 1930.

Based on total assets, including cash, listed securities at market value and fixed assets at cost, less all liabilities, on public market at cost, the value per share of convertible preference stock was $44.20, while the value per share of common stock was $11.10, per speculative unit. On January 1, 327,650 shares which should have been outstanding had all convertible preference been converted as of April 14.

Mr. Williams said that since the first of the year the corporation's holdings in securities not enjoying a ready market have been reduced and that its cash position has been improved through sale at recently advanced market prices of holdings in certain enterprises whose 1930 prospects are less attractive than formerly. Investments in non-dividend paying stocks, which represented a cost of $220,647, have been sold and dividend paying securities representing $527,713 have been added to the portfolio.

Holdings in enterprises whose earning power is not wholly dependent on aviation have been increased, but no change in investment policy is involved. Mr. Williams pointed out that as well-managed local banks avoid placing too large a proportion of their resources in one industry, so it is prudent, entirely on local conditions, that investors can be guided not to tie the aviation industry at the proper time but temporarily using their funds in enterprises which will secure an increase in business through the development of aviation, which are distributing essential products to the industry, or which are engaged in activities bearing on the development of the art.

Hamburg-American Line

Hamburg-American Line reports for 1929 net of $1,200,014 reichsmarks after expenses, taxes, depreciation, etc. Total receipts were 59,567,745. Dividends of 7 per cent on R. M. 180,000,200 were $1,200,014 reichsmarks.

Unemployment is the subject of a forthcoming article by Irving Fisher, professor of Yale economics, a regular contributor to this page.

GIRL REJECTS GAGNON AFTER LOVE LETTER

Although it is nearly a month since his arrival for a wife was first published in the Boston Evening American, letters offering their services' hands in marriage continue to descend on the bagpipes of 3 Cabot st. Quincy.

Gagnon can't understand us to whom it is addressed, but he reads and the arguments for his immediate removal there, but he returns to his home in Quincy, where he is content to live with his aged wife.

Gagnon came to Boston Harbor 4 years ago, but almost half a century of his 53 years have been spent on the sea. He has visited all the world's ports, and he can tell you of the time when his children are of weight in making a real home for him and the boy.

That is why Gagnon's matrimonial zone today is one selection and one him down.

TURNS HIM DOWN

He picked out Helen Hagnon, Francoville, of Hedgate st. All alone, as the girl of his choice, but although he had written him, she had a change of heart and finally told him it was all a mistake and she had merely written him in fun, because of similarity in their names.

So Gagnon has taken to reading letters again. In one of the latest missives, a Dorchester girl says:

"I am 55, tall and thin, dark brown hair, blue eyes, light complexion, and I weigh 110 pounds. I am a stenographer and have a baby girl 20 months old.

"I am very affectionate toward children, also a loving mother and a very pleasing wife to someone who would appreciate me. I stay in every night and take care of my baby. I work all day and my mother takes care of her. I would like to get a letter from you telling me how I stand."

A BLONDE PROPOSED.

A girl in Norwood writes:

"I am 23 years old, 5 ft. weigh 128 pounds and have long, blonde hair. I have no parents and am alone in the world. I am fond of children and would give half my life to have a home and someone to love and work for.

"I work here and room out. You say you're a stenographer, can you imagine what my life is? You at least have your baby boy. I just know I could take care for him as if he were my own.

"If you do not care to have a talk with me, at least write me a letter and let me know if you have someone else."

3 KILLED, 9 HURT IN RED RIOTS

Leipsig, Germany, April 21 (AP)—Strict police measures were in force today to prevent outbreak of Communist rioting which yesterday cost the lives of three persons and the injury of others.

A checkup today showed two police and one Communist dead, four Communists badly hurt and three policemen seriously injured and six others injured slightly. One of the policemen is in a precarious condition.

About 30,000 Communists gathered on the Augustus Plata, a spacious square, for a convention of Communist youth. The fighting started when police threw a cordon about the square.

Kin of Rothstein Aide Slain by Cop

New York, April 21—James Walsh, 23, Bronx ex-convict, and brother of the late "Patty" Walsh, bodyguard of Arnold Rothstein, gambler, was shot and probably fatally wounded by a police-man during an attempted holdup.

Physicians said that if Walsh did not die he would be crippled for life. A bullet lodged in his spine.

☆ BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN ☆

LARGEST EVENING
CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

Hurry Up, Mr. Wilson!

Why Delay Certain Resignation?

IN ancient days the people of Boston employed a town-crier in whom was lodged a twofold task. One was to relate to them the current news. The other was to remind them of their public duty, in brief, pithy sentences.

If he were alive today, he would no doubt be walking up and down Washington Street, declaring to the noon-day crowds: "Police Commissioner Wilson should resign."

As the testimony draws to a close in the Boston Police scandals, it should require no ancient oracle to remind Mr. Wilson that his ineptitude to direct the affairs of the most important police force in New England has been one of the unfortunate but, nevertheless, inescapable conclusions.

Mr. Wilson, it has been shown, has allowed his subordinates to run him around by the nose.

He has permitted them to defy him and to challenge him openly.

He has shown a lamb-like confidence in the honesty of those who were charged for years with collecting graft wholesale.

He said he was unaware of any right to examine the bank accounts of those officers so accused although his own experiences in the Massachusetts Legislature should have convinced him that such a search for graft evidence is a common practice in this State.

He constantly permitted accused officers, and no others, to "investigate" the charges of corruption which had been made against them. In fact, it was a habit with him.

He pigeonholed the complaints of citizens who were outraged by what they believed to be the ramifications of graft and incompetency in the police department.

Day in, day out, he accepted the whitewash reports of favored subordinates, permitting those reports to be concealed from Superintendent Crowley and other protesting officials of high rank.

The companionship of officers and bootleggers, their accumulations of quick wealth and their patronage of dives where liquor was sold openly and from which graft was paid seemed not to have jarred his complacent faith in them.

Attorney General Warner's investigation has exposed these conditions in a very short time. They were conditions which were commonly known for years. It was Mr. Wilson's duty to have known them. He was derelict.

In the final analysis, Mr. Wilson took refuge in the retreat of a weak man. "I relied upon the Captain," was his usual alibi. But Mr. Wilson was the Commandant, and the responsibility for good or bad service rested with him.

Mr. Wilson has said that the job is too big for one man.

He should quit it.

If he doesn't, Governor Allen should serve in the capacity of the old town-crier to him. He should tell Wilson to resign.

Old-Age Pensions

State Needs Sensible Law

THE sentiment for old-age pensions has increased in Massachusetts as it has elsewhere in the country.

There seems to be an indication that the temper of the people on this subject has actually reached the Legislature.

Accordingly, if the legislation is to be passed at this session, as it ought to be, let it be a genuine old-age pension law.

The stigma of the pauper dole ought not to be associated with it. Old-age pensions is not a dole; it is not a contribution to the relief of pauperism. It is a compensation which society pays to its aged and infirm members and which becomes an especial obligation in this industrial era of high-speed machinery which burns out the earning capacity of a man at an earlier age.

Nor is there any good reason why the aged people of the State should be required to jump through a hoop in order to prove their eligibility to receive the old-age pension and, after they have received it, be subjected to the whims of some investigator who would instruct them what kind of cereal to eat for breakfast or how many buttons to wear on their vest.

The payment should be made ungrudgingly; without vexatious restrictions. We are not dealing with children in this matter. And why wait until they have attained the age of seventy years? The graveyards are littered with the tombstones of people who died at an earlier age and whose passing would have been the happier if society had demonstrated a more humane interest in them.

Just a Little Miracle

And the Bolshevik Chiefs Would Run

DEEP excitement was caused in England by the Russian campaign against religion." The Archbishop of Canterbury, primate of all England, the Archbishop of York, and King George himself, were deeply concerned. The Bishop of London says it is the first time in 1000 years that there has been an anti-God campaign in the world.

Cardinal Bourne said in a speech at Hatfield that "If we do not crush this movement the result not only in Russia but throughout the world will be too terrible to contemplate."

Fortunately, all these good men realize that if Russia's anti-religious campaign ought to be crushed, the Ruler of all space and all territory, including Russia, will surely attend to it. It wouldn't take much of a miracle to frighten the Bolsheviks.

If the Baltic should overflow its bounds and drown a few millions, if the seas to the southeast rolled in a northwesterly direction over valleys and mountains and flooded Moscow, you would soon see the Russians, led by Bolshevik chiefs, hurrying to the churches and the ikons.

ALMOST four hundred years ago John Heywood wrote, in his Proverbs:

"Who is so deafe or so blinde as is hee
That wilfully will neither heare nor see?"

Answering the poet we say that whoever that person "so deafe or so blinde," may be, it certainly is not our President, Herbert Hoover.

He couldn't be a careful, watchful engineer all these years and then fail to see and hear the four GENTLEMEN in the four BARRELS, presented here.

Doubtless Herbert Hoover is going inside just to look around and see what the place is like. He will hurry out unquestionably before they get his political clothes, shoes and undershirt.

The four gentlemen in the barrels thought the League Court perfectly harmless. It has not been harmless to THEM.

Three of them were "sitting pretty" in the Senate, and boosting the League Court enthusiastically. One, Deneen, thought he could beat Ruth Hanna McCormick, by advocating the League Court.

Now, President Hoover, please LOOK at them. Give them the "Up and Down," the "North and South" and the "Once Over."

See what THEY look like, politically, after advocating the League Court. Listen to what they say.

The door through which you are passing is the League of Nations back door. Ask Chief Justice of the Supreme Court Hughes, he knows.

H. G. Wells Writes

ON "THE SCIENCE OF LIFE"

THERE is, for example, a large group of species the wolves and jackals that are obviously very like each other, there is another group the foxes, which also resemble each other, but which differ in a number of respects from the individuals of the first.

Each of these separate groups is called a genus (plural genera). The wolf and jackal genus is called Canis and the fox genus is called Vulpes. Sometimes a single species is so strikingly different from all the rest of its genus that it is put in a genus by itself; thus the long-legged, foxy-red "maned wolf" of Brazil and Paraguay constitutes the genus Chrysocyon.

Usually, however, a genus contains a number of species.

In speaking of animals, the zoologist finds it convenient to give both the generic and specific names very much as in speaking of human individuals we often give both Christian and family names.

In order to avoid confusion, certain conventions are adopted; the name of the genus is put before the name of the species; the name of the genus is written with a capital letter, that of the species with a small letter.

Thus the common European wolf is called Canis lupus, the Indian jackal is Canis aureus, the common fox Vulpes vulpes, the long-eared fennec fox Vulpes zerda, the maned wolf Chrysocyon jubatus, and so on.

Carrying the classifying process a step further, we group the genera of dogs together to form a family, the Canidæ.

This is brigaded with a number of other families, with cats and bears and hyenas and weasles and seals and a host of others, to form an order, the Carnivora; this, with a number of other orders, forms a sub-class, the placental mammals, and so on, as we have already seen.

So much for the ideal. Now for the difficulties.

We noted in the last section that the individuals composing a species are never exactly like each other. Even in the cleanest, most sharply-defined species the individuals show slight variations in their color, size, instincts, and so on.

In the common European wolf, Canis lupus, for example, animals from different localities vary in length of fur, the coat being thicker in northern wolves and there is a tendency for the latter to grow to a larger size than the southern individuals.

This particular case does not present a very puzzling problem to the systematist. There is no question of dividing the European wolf into two or more species, for the extreme types are connected together by a grading series of intermediate forms, all breeding freely together. There are simply variations within the limits of a single species.

But even if we take into consideration all the wolves of the world, the problem of variation becomes more acute.

The true wolf ranges over the whole of the north hemisphere from the Arctic Circle to south temperate latitudes, and apart from such "sports" as complete blackness, which may turn up anywhere, the characters of wolves vary in accordance with the climate of the particular region they inhabit.

And there are variations in build and proportion. Now sometimes these differences are considerable enough to make it doubtful whether the forms should be grouped in the same species or not.

There are, for example, the American timber-wolf, the pale wolves of Northwestern India; the small short-legged Japanese wolf, the little red wolf of Texas, these and many others, all fairly distinct from the common wolf of Europe, but just similar enough to leave us in doubt whether they should be separated or left together.

Confronted with this problem, the experts differ among themselves. Some prefer to distinguish these various kinds as separate species; others include them all within the species Canis lupus and distinguish them as local races or sub-species.

TROUT season just opened in New Jersey is reported as phenomenally poor. They say the streams are simply alive with trout fishermen.

WE understand that so many anglers are wading in the brooks that occasionally a trout is taken out in order to allow a waiting fisherman to occupy its place.

NOW that the Leviathan has a night club, Tex Guinan may join the navy.

The U. S. liner arrived from Boston and went into dry-dock to have the subpoenas removed.

For the first time in history you will be able to stay out all night on a boat.

Survivors of the trial trip say the night club is a success. We will bet have a merchant marine. If they don't padlock the premises.

This is what the world has waited for. We have always wanted to take an ocean trip indoors.

We will be there when the saxophones are barking in the dog watch.

Even though the ballast has shifted there is no real danger when the boat has a heavy wine list to starboard.

There will be no danger from bergs when every alert passenger has an ice pick in his hand.

Our honky-tonks have emptied the globe and the blare of the mutrine blues is heard on the seven seas. And when the commodore pulled a flask off his hip only the bravery of the crew averted a panic.

The Europa saved 18 minutes on its last trip but its waiters lost more time than that getting back from the kitchen. The night club on the Leviathan is run on the American plan with a dance 10 on the side of a postage stamp. It should get the out-of-town trade.

The night club in the navy would have been approved by departed heroes like John Paul Jones and Farragut. They know it develops fighters.

We will be there in the Leviathan's night club when the old screw sails. Don't give your right name.

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

POKER FACE

I WAS, perhaps, eight. And should have been in bed hours ago. But mother was busy and dad didn't notice that I had crept in and was watching him from the corner.

He was playing cards in the dining room with Doc Allen and Ed. Grier and Al Harvey and old Mister Rogers. They were sitting in their shirt-sleeves, under the waxy light of the hanging lamp, and the room was so full of tobacco smoke that they seemed to be sunk in a blue pool. Only their faces showed distinctly and they interested me, for they were quite different from everyday faces. They were entirely expressionless, more like masks than faces and watching them, I felt shut out from some mystery.

Elsie Robinson

I HAD seen Dad playing cards before, but he never looked like that. He had laughed and scowled and given deep grunts of surprise those other times. But this time he did not give a look or make a sound. He just sat there, with his blue pool visor about him and his face as still as the iron door on the lawn.

* * *

It frightened me. And when after awhile, when he explained to me that he was playing poker and that men looked that way when they were playing poker, I could not understand and I felt a strange, new awe of him.

But now that I've sat through the years, watching life deal the cards, learning to "poker face" myself, I think I understand—and I feel an even greater awe for that man who was my father.

* * *

He played out his life, as he played out the cards in that shadowed room. From a shabby-genteel, brave poverty and an agonizing illness which endured for 20 years. Never once, in that time, did he know what it meant to draw one free, full breath. He was always in pain and he might have made it very terrible for those about him. Yet, right to the end, he wore a poker face. And smiled as the pool rose higher.

* * *

SO I've come to think that a man can hardly do a more gallant thing than wear a poker face as he plays the game with life.

Time ticking away and the blue pool rising about you and you taking the cards as they come.

Taking heart break or joy—love or hate—failure or success—with the same inscrutable dignity and friendliness—that is the noblest sign of a civilized soul.

For no man can pick his cards . . . but he can pick his face. And by the face he chooses, he can prove himself a blessing or a burden to humanity. What will come with the next shuffle? What waits, beyond this little, smoky room filled with we all must pose? No one can say. But, if you have the makings in you you can play be game through like a god!

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 21—Day of a modern Pepys. Up and to Staten Island to watch a champion horse shoe pitch and found it dull. But on the ferry homeward the fiddler and harpist played "Pop Goes the Weasel," "Moneymusk" and "The Sailor's Hornpipe" while I watched the spiraling gulls and day dreamed.

To my lodgings and news from Seattle of receiving the Eichelberger Humane Award along with Mrs. Fiske, Mrs. H. U. Kibbe, George Arliss, Radclyffe Hall, Irene Castle McLaughlin and Ida Diana Ehberg. Also a letter from William Boyd, the cinema player, who has been circling the globe.

WHERE are the shrines
At which you bend
For thanks and prayer
At long days' end?

Must you seek out
Some lofty room
Where incense lifts
And candles bloom?

Or would you find
A grotto cool
Where waters splash
In a dim pool?

Where are the shrines
At which you bend
For prayer and thanks
At nights' end?
